

Hi my story in bubble has had a mishaps, where I was living I moved into a shared house a month before the lockdown with my cat but 2 weeks ago my housemate "lost the plot"- was quite scary she called the police exusing of things I hadn't done but ended up with me having to move out of shared house - did some same night then next day got rest of my things & just as well as housemate had changed lock so meant had to get it all or would have been locked out. Happy to away from shared house - cat is in a cattery & I'm at a room at my friend's house.
